

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A document imaging platform system and methodology for capturing, transmitting, storing, retrieving and displaying documents in a shared-system
5 environment using the Internet or other network is disclosed. Through utilization of thumbnail images along with full images, transmission of multipage documents is facilitated, avoiding system bottlenecks. Document security is hierarchically based with document control being available to system users in addition to system administrators.